ABOUT QUA:

The journey of Qua began from a trip to Vietnam in 2002, where the founder Meng Yee was mesmerized by the high-quality craftsmanship of a particular workshop that she was at – whom we work closely with till date. Embracing the partnership and where the idea took root, the name “Qua” is inspired by an abbreviation of 'gifts' in Vietnamese. Qua was born from the desire to breathe meaning into gifting, and as a brand, it is synonymous with meticulous artistry which crafts distinctive lacquerware that lasts generations.

Harmony Tapestry

Just as Singapore has flourished through harmony and diversity, this tapestry is a symbol of our nation's unwavering spirit as we step into the next chapter of our journey.

This intricate motif reflects the rich cultural tapestry that defines our nation, drawing inspiration from the diverse ethnic groups that have shaped Singapore.

Each carefully selected design element embodies our shared heritage —

The grace of the Peony (Chinese),
the elegance of the Batik (Malay), the intricacy of Buttis (Indian), and the charm of Portuguese influences (Eurasian).

SOCIALLY RESPONSIBLE GIFTS

At Qua, one of our specialties is translating art into lacquerware products. We have been working with special needs, differently-abled artists since 2011, creating a revenue stream for the artists. In doing so, we immortalise their creations, allowing them to sell more than just one painting at a time. We were the first in Singapore to work with the Pathlight School, and are now, we collaborate extensively with ART:DIS.

Qua is privileged to partner ART:DIS to introduce a collection of gift premiums.

ART:DIS is the leading non-profit charity organisation dedicated to providing opportunities for persons with disabilities (PWDs) to be involved in the arts sphere. ART:DIS works to create and provide access and opportunities for PWDs through the arts. It promotes visual, performing and literary arts through various programmes and events for PWDs. ART:DIS has also established pathways for them to progress and excel in their fields and pursue a career in the arts. It created Singapore's first inclusive theatre and first inclusive literary art programme and was founded and launched by Ambassador-at-Large Prof Tommy Koh.

Qua believes in the important causes in Singapore and the non-profit organizations that strives to make a difference. Realising our CSR efforts through this collaboration, we aim to promote the art created by these unique and talented individuals as well as reach out to the public about people by special needs.

RIVER TALES

About the Collection: River Tales

The River Tales artwork masterfully portrays the timeless beauty of Singapore's landscapes. This captivating piece showcases the iconic Singapore River, offering glimpses of the old landscape that includes the historic Collyer Quay from 1971. Collyer Quay holds a significant place in Singapore's history, having served as a vibrant waterfront entrance that facilitated trade activities and contributed to the city's early growth.

In a delightful contrast, the artwork also captures the modern-day landscape, highlighting the well-known architecture that has become an integral part of Singapore's identity. This seamless interplay between the past and present evokes a deep sense of reflection, symbolising Singapore's remarkable journey of progress while cherishing its rich heritage.

About the artist: Kenneth Lee

From the young age of 5, Kenneth has taken an interest in drawing and sketching different objects. Today, he is a young and innovative budding artist with autism and shows a great passion for art, where he is able to express his creativity.

COLLABORATION

SHOPHOUSE BLESSINGS

Shophouse Blessing Series

Qua x Jessica Wong presents the Shophouse Blessings Series, inspired by Singapore's rich history and heritage found in shophouses. These desk organisers feature the key design elements of a Singaporean shophouse, namely — the facade, which is richly decorated with elements drawn from a mix of cultures across East and West; the side elevation, which features a pitched roof for our rainy weather, the five-foot way, designed to give passage to the community in all weather; and the slanted structure, which was done to cleverly take advantage of the maximum area when aligning the front facades along roads, as well as the back for the back lanes. In our Singapore Shophouse Blessings Series, we have included the characters in Chinese that are used to wish blessings upon the receiver, which can also be found on windows and doors of shophouses in Singapore. These elements of the facade together with the blessings are intricately painted with gold foil.

With the blessings '长发兴隆 - Always Thriving & Prosperous', '福乐安康 - Bliss, Joy, Peace, Health' and '和睦相处 - To Live in Harmony', this is the ideal practical gift to express your wishes while also serving as a keepsake.

About the artist: Jessica Wong

Her work has won design awards including a Special Commendation at the President's Design Award (2014), ASEAN Furniture Design Award (2018) and Singapore Creator Awards (2019). Passionate about design, she also serves as an adjunct lecturer, sharing her design experience with students at the tertiary level. Her designs are inspired by stories and shifus (mastercraftsmen) and beautifully brings tradition together with modernity.

THE SINGAPORE HERITAGE

THE SINGAPORE HERITAGE

A melting pot of different cultures, languages and religion rooted in a cohesive multi-racial and multicultural society, Singapore is the wonderful blend of everything flavourful, of both old and new.

The Singapore Heritage series celebrates the rich combined history that we have as a nation. From the vibrant Peranakan culture to the time whereby we were not even yet a nation, the shared identity that we have serves as the perfect backdrop for the beautiful, luxurious lacquerware that is perfect for keepsakes.

IVORY NYONYA

About the collection: Ivory Nyonya

The early Peranakans adopted the practice of incorporating expensive decorative ceramic tiles into the interior and exterior of their houses as a reflection of their extravagant lifestyle and status. The decorative tiles, usually in floral motifs, added a dash of vibrant colours into their Victorian-style houses – which architecture reflect the East-West blend of the Straits Chinese. Through the modernisation of Singapore, the production of these tiles diminished slowly, along with the forgotten Peranakan heritage, and eventually have ceased to be mass-produced.

The Qua Ivory Nyonya Collection explores a modern twist to the classic Peranakan tiles, with the use of white and simpler colour palette for a more minimalistic look.

A CHRISTMAS TRAIL

A Christmas Trail

A Christmas Trail features three poetic watercolour paintings by artist Queck Mei Chien, celebrating the most wonderful time of the year in the quirky, flavourful pockets of our city-state. Our iconic shophouses are visited by no other than Santa Claus; a little angel is led in for a visit by a Nonya clad in the traditional Sarong Kebaya; and a snowman slides down in glee at the Dragon Playground of Toa Payoh. 2020 and 2021 had been the one of the most trying two years for all of us, and we hope that this collection serves as a reminder that there can be beauty, romance and joy of Christmas wherever we are.

WILLIAM

WILLIAM FARQUHAR

The William Farquhar Collection came from the very extensive watercolour drawings commissioned by William Farquhar, the first Resident and Commandant of Singapore (1819-1823), during his prior tenure as Resident of Melaka – there are 477 of these paintings that had been documented!

These natural history drawings depict the flora and fauna of the Malay Peninsula, most likely accomplished by local Chinese artists, with inscriptions identifying the species by their English and Malay names. Farquhar brought this set along with him when he left Singapore, and subsequently donated it to the Royal Asiatic Society in London in 1827. In 1993, it was put up for auction and purchased by Mr G.K. Goh, who had kindly donated the entire collection to the National Museum of Singapore.

We had selected a few of the paintings that best represent the spirit and history of its time and are great as gifts for a unique representation of Singapore.

HARMONY

HARMONY

The whole is greater than the sum of its parts – one of the cornerstones of Singapore’s success is the diversity of our population while maintaining racial harmony. This cohesion between the races and culture is definitely a quality that is unique in the world that is difficult to come by. To celebrate this identity, Qua has designed the Harmony Collection, which was inspired by symbols of the main ethnic groups in Singapore: Malay, Indian, Chinese and Eurasian.

Malay: Inspired by the Malay culture of the “Wayang Kulit” (shadow puppet play) and the batik, we placed a spin on the symbolic patterns, vivid colours and shadow puppet figures.

Indian: The Indian design represents the tradition of “Rangoli” (traditional Indian folk art created on the floor using coloured rice, sand and flower petals) and henna painting (intricate hand tattoos adored by Indian women for festive occasions).

Chinese: Based on the Peony flower which embodies romance and prosperity, the Chinese has always been regarded as an omen of good fortune and a happy marriage.

Eurasian: The Eurasians originated from the integration of the European traders and local populations that resulted in culture particular to their mixed heritage. This design is indicative of tiles Eurasian families would decorate their homes that have a mix of European and Asian influences.

THE SIGHTS & SOUNDS OF SINGAPORE

THE SIGHTS & SOUNDS OF SINGAPORE

A young nation that has been through years of turbulence and mostly peace through the years, our progression is astounding. This series shows how far we've come, a city filled with futuristic skyscrapers, yet rooted in different cultures and our floral and fauna.

ORCHID

About the collection: Orchid

Vanda Miss Joaquim was chosen as Singapore's national flower back in 1981. The designation of a national flower was part of an overall effort to foster national pride and identity. Singapore has the unique distinction of being the only nation to have a hybrid as its national flower.

This collection highlights the simple, yet significant beauty of the Vanda Miss Joaquim.

ONE LINE SINGAPORE

About the collection: One Line Singapore

Qua presents the icons of Singapore depicted through the unique technique of “One Line Drawing”.

In one fluid action, the pen does not leave the paper from the time the image begins till the illustration is completed. This reflects on the flow of the artist’s inspiration at that moment when the drawing is made.

The One Line Singapore collection was created by our designer, inspired by the icons of Singapore – Marina Bay Sands, the Changi Airport Control Tower, Vanda Miss Joaquim, Gardens by the Bay and the Merlion.

By blending the artist’s momentary inspiration and the timeless beauty of lacquer, Qua has created a collection that reflects the icons of Singapore in simple sophistication.
